

The Crêt de Chalam

Whoever has climbed Reculet and Grand Crêt d'Eau has probably been surprised to discover that the Jura was not what is described in geographical books. In fact, this mountain range displays a more complex morphology than the simple succession of synclines and anticlines. Sometimes steep walls or remarkable tops are breaking this monotonous look.

Crêt de Chalam is amongst these unusually looking tops of Jura. In fact, this one is displaying a kind of cone which top is made of meadows.

In order for the experience to be richer in terms of different sceneries, we will start from the bottom of the valley of Valserine. We will thus climb up the Forens vale in order to reach the ridge leading to the top.
